From the Bloomington Leader The Merchant pavement is laid entirely with stone. The plan, as adopted

STREET PAVEMENT.

Description of the Merchant-Pavement

as Laid in Bioomington.

m this city, is to pave forty feet in width. After the road bed is made, two tracks are laid, one on either side of the centre of the street, as follows: Two and one half feet from the centre of the street is laid a line of flag stones, one foot wide six inches thick, and from three to five feet in length, then a space of four feet is left, and then another line of flagging is laid. The four lines of flags form two smooth continuous tracks, the space dividing the two tracks being five fect and the space between the lines of flagging being four feet from the outside of the line of flagging farthest from the centre to the cuib line, is eleven and one half feet The top of the flags are laid so that they are six inches lower than the curb The spaces from the earb to the first line of flags next the curbs slope in a direct line. The four-feet spaces be-tween the tracks and the five-foot space that divides the two tracks are laid in the shape of an arch, with the centre or key two inches above the top of the flags. The spaces between and outside the tracks are laid with rubble stone broken to sizes that will lay a depth of six inches and set edgeways in regular courses breaking joints. All interstices are filled with dry sand and gravel brushed in, and the surface settled with a heavy wooden rammer. After the tammer has been used a coating of sand is spread over the surface of the pavement, and the teams are allowed the use of the street. The tracks are all on the same level, except at street in tersections, where it is necessary to cross surface water

The shape of the street has advan tages in draining toward the centre, by long away with the gutter next to the outh, which, in the old shape, becomes clogged with refuse matter, and liable to be a succession of mudholes, to be thrown on pedestrians, by horses

Thirty feet of street, paved on this plan, is as good as forty with side guters, for there is always five feet on each side unused except to hitch houses. Every square inch of this pavement may be used and occupied, and the wheels will never be more than two inches from the same level. There are always smooth even tracks that are advantageous both to he wily loaded wigons and light vehicles The first can carry a maximum load with lighter draft than on any other pave ment, and for light driving there is no jar, shake or concussion, while the footing for horses is the best that can be offered for permanence and solidity. The drainage is better than on any other pavement, as the tracks carrying the drainage, will be kept open by the action of the wheels, and being laid on an even and true grade there can be no stoppage of water. Street intersections will make perfect connection without under drainage, where the surface is The pavement can be taken up and sas, water or sewer connections made without loss of material or permanently injuring the street. It can be constructed in Bloomington for less than one dollar per square yard.

The material is not perishable Noth ing but stone, sand and gravel enters into the construction.

The shape of the street makes the pavement stronger than the old plan and less liable to get out of repair—It is an ad-vantage to every—business—house—and residence to establish the side gutter. The facilities for cleaning cannot be excelled. The tendency of the wash of the street is towards the tracks, and they present a smooth surface to shovel from, wet or dry

Figure 2 In reply to yours, just is crived asking what effect Dr. Pierce's medicines had on me. I would say three years ago I expected to die with consumption. I had long suffered with catarril my throat and langs were builty affected and my system was rapidly breaking down. I had teled many physicians and remedies without benefit. Having seen good results follow the use of Dr. Pierce's medicines. I resolved to give them a thorough trial. In see months time I was entirely cured. No medicines stand higher in my estimation, than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Dr. Sage's Catarril Cented. They not only saved my life but have made me a hearty and strong min. Very truly yours. DECYLER HE Aug 6 1877

' OBITUARY.

FODIK A. ROBERTS, born Feb. 22, 1859.

These 18 years of Eddic alife were all spint in Deratur. He was the only son of a kind and indulgent father and a loving and tender mother was always a great lover of his home, and very rare were the instances when outside companionship could for any length of time, detain him from the mother he loved so well -During the last two years he had been possessed of so great a desire to be employed on the railroad that no other occupation seemed to entirfy him fer iny length of time. The parents could nev a reconcile themselves to give him this permission until the week of his death. Just one week before he died his mother had a long and serious talk with him. She told him she felt impressed that it might be the list time she could ever talk to him about his cternal interests. During the conversation Eddie broke down and sobbed like a child was repontant and gave promise of a better life. Ever after he maintained the same repentant mood and swee child like spirit. Then his mother, in giving her consent for him to go on the railroid, committed him at the same time unto the Lord asking Himwho could see the end from the begin ning-to do as He saw best with the lid-
